

offer a watered-down compromise that will satisfy actually no one. I think it is appalling. What are we here to do if not to address the issues of national security, war and peace, and life and death?

And the White House, meanwhile, persists in a stubborn state of denial. The President continues to say he will not leave until the mission is complete, but at this point there is no clear mission nor how to know when it is complete. As he consistently has, the President is leaving open the very real possibility that our troops will be in Iraq for as long as he occupies the Oval Office.

The White House obviously wasn't listening to the message that was sent on November 7. But we are a co-equal branch of government, and we owe it to the American people to push for a course correction in Iraq. Obviously we won't make any progress on that front this week, but I look forward to the new year when the quacking stops and we will have a new Congress with a mandate and the fortitude to bring an end to this disastrous occupation and to bring our troops home.

URGING REFORM OF IMMIGRATION POLICY PERTAINING TO SANCTUARY CITIES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Texas (Ms. SEKULA GIBBS) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. SEKULA GIBBS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to speak regarding a subject that is very important to my constituents in Congressional District 22 of Texas and has great national interest as well. This consideration is regarding much needed reform on our Nation's immigration policies, especially those policies that regard such sanctuary cities, as they are known.

As you are aware, my colleague from Texas, Congressman JOHN CULBERSON, led a successful effort to place an amendment in a recent bill that passed the House of Representatives but has not come forward through the Senate, and this bill disallows Federal funding to those cities who do not provide information to Federal immigration officers regarding illegal aliens. Cities such as Houston, cities that operate under general orders such as that signed by a police chief, those orders that prevent police officers from asking about the immigration status of criminals who commit claim C misdemeanors. Such sanctuary policies have contributed to rising crime rates and to, unfortunately, deaths of police officers, such as the death of Police Officer Rodney Johnson in Houston, who was killed this year by an illegal immigrant, one who had been arrested three times and deported once but then subsequently returned to Texas.

Americans are indeed saddened at the loss of our troops in the war in Iraq and also the war conducted across the world against terrorists. We have lost almost 2,900 troops in the war in Iraq. But this figure has to be placed into perspective. We have been given information by Representatives STEVE KING, Republican from Iowa, who used data from the Government Accountability Office, the Violent Crimes Institute of Atlanta, and AAA Foundation, that says that 12 Americans are murdered every day by illegal aliens and 13 Americans are estimated to be killed by illegal aliens who are driving while intoxicated. This gives us a total of almost 4,700 Americans who are murdered annually by illegal aliens. These statistics must not go unrecognized. They call out for action.

Americans also are losing their property rights. Those rights are being trampled in favor of the rights of illegal aliens. Recently a jury awarded $210,000 in damages against a rancher who was attempting to protect his property against trespassing by individuals that he thought were illegal aliens but turned out not to be, but he was really attempting to defend his property. He will ultimately be required to pay $98,000 for trying to defend his property against trespassers. What about his rights? Ranchers have been put on notice that if they attempt to prevent armed trespassers from crossing their property, they could face financial ruin with charges of civil rights violations, especially if those trespassers happen to be illegal aliens.

This is not right. Legal is legal and illegal is illegal. Illegal immigrants should not be accorded more rights than American citizens.

Mr. Speaker, this is a very important issue to the constituents in the congressional district in my part of Texas, Southeast Texas, District 22. Tackling the problem of illegal immigration will require full cooperation of all of our government resources, local, State, and Federal, and I call on this body to work diligently to help us solve this situation. We are all Americans and we must pull together to address difficult issues such as this. Taxpayers demand accountability from elected officials across our country, and they have made it clear that they will not tolerate uncooperative or inefficient use of government resources and their tax dollars.

I would like to urge you to work hard to ensure that this important provision that deals with sanctuary city policies is included in any version of immigration bills that do progress into law through this body.

HONORING DR. MARION FLECK

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from New Mexico (Mr. UDALL) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. UDALL of New Mexico. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Dr. Marion Fleck, co-founder of the College of Nursing at the Health Sciences Center of the University of New Mexico. She was recently honored at a large gathering in Albuquerque, both for her enormous contributions to the field of nursing and also for her 90th birthday.

Marion Fleck is truly a remarkable lady, and her story is legendary. Born in Wisconsin on September 4, 1916, she earned a degree in nursing in her home State, a master's from Yale University, and a doctorate from the University of New Mexico with honors. In 1955 Dr. Fleck and Mary Jane Carter met with then UNM President Tom Popejoy, whose support led to his securing $60,000 from the New Mexico legislature that year to found the first baccalaureate program in nursing in the State. Out of that initial funding, the college grew to graduate thousands of nurses over the years in every aspect of patient care: teaching, research, and all the nursing specialties. Of particular triumph, the UNM College of Nursing will be graduating its first Ph.D. candidates in the 2007 academic year.

Dr. Fleck was Dean of the UNM College of Nursing in the mid-1970s and also served in other important positions in the community. She worked in public health and also served for 17 years as the director of school nursing for the Albuquerque public schools.

She is loved and admired for her commitment and devotion to better health care by her fellow professionals, by students, and by the untold numbers of the community that she has served so well.

Dr. Fleck's late husband was also a legend in public education. Dr. Martin Fleck was a professor and chair of biology at the University of New Mexico. Like his wife, he was a caring and involved member of his community, serving on committees that either founded or supported the symphony, public parks and many educational programs. He was also a devoted family man who, with his wife, raised his children, Martin and Ann Hara.

Dr. Marion Fleck is a visionary whose unwavering enthusiasm, vigorous efforts and diligent action blazed the course for others. She inspired both students and health professionals to be the best they could and to strive to follow her example of commitment and devotion to professional nursing and public health. Because of her courageous and determined spirit over a century ago, thousands of citizens across New Mexico and the Nation have received quality trained nurses to strive to make a better life for others. I respectfully ask my colleagues to join me today in paying the highest tribute to a New Mexico treasure and a great American, Dr. Marion Fleck.

Thank you, Dr. Fleck, for your many years of extraordinary service.
